

ELECTRONIC INFORMATION LOCKOUT SYSTEM

Abstract of the Invention

5 A lockout system for preventing a person from accessing electronic information using a computer or cable/ADSL modem, the system comprising a case housing a circuit capable of accessing electronic information and a locking device including a reading device configured to receive user input, the locking device configured to enable and disable the access of electronic information in response to the user input.